NOTICE

Intellectual property (IP) is a product of human intellect and the rights granted on it allow its owner to benefit from the fruits of this intellectual endeavour by creating a monopoly over it. IP is protected in law by patents, copyright and trademarks, which enable people to earn recognition or financial benefit from what they invent or create. Intellectual property rights (IPRs) play a key role in every sector and have become the basis for crucial investment decisions. IPRs are exclusive rights and therefore there is always a challenge to strike a balance between the interests of innovators and the interests of the society at large.
