Adult Computer Drive

For adults who lack familiarity with computers, life in the modern age can be a challenge. That's because technology is involved in almost every aspect of life: people need this for work, keeping in touch with family & friends, day-to-day task management, remote education and even online shopping. On 12th October, as a part of community service initiatives, students of BCREC organized computer education for adults with a focus on two areas: developing familiarity with the hardware of a computer – monitor, mouse, keyboard, USB memory stick etc. and building an understanding of Word, Excel and PowerPoint, accessing email, using search engines, joining social media platforms, etc.
